Mt. San Jacinto College
Serving Our Veteran Population

The centers, located on the Menifee Valley and San Jacinto campuses, are designed to help veterans connect with the resources they need to succeed at MSJC. Veterans’ dependents (spouse and/or children) are also eligible for services. The college district, which has served thousands of veterans over the years, stretches over a 1,700-square-mile area that runs from the San Gorgonio Pass to Temecula and has campuses in Banning, San Jacinto, Menifee and two locations in Temecula.

MSJC is proud to serve its student-veteran population and to be a part of the commitment by the California Community Colleges Chancellor’s Office and President Obama’s “8 Keys to Success” plan to help student-veterans at college. MSJC is one of more than 90 community colleges to implement President Obama’s plan. The plan helps veterans to afford and complete college degrees and certificates in preparation for jobs in high-growth sectors of the economy. See www.ed.gov/veterans-and-military-families/8-keys-success-sites.

The centers specialize in GI Bill benefits, educational counseling and can help veterans connect with the resources they need to succeed at MSJC. Veterans’ dependents (spouse and/or children) are also eligible for services. The centers have lounge areas with sofas, conference and study areas for meetings and tutoring. They also provide veterans with a place for camaraderie.

The VRC on the Menifee Valley Campus is in Room 1017 and on the San Jacinto Campus in room 1560.

Nearly half of America’s college students attend community college, with more than 7 million students – youth and adult learners – working toward certificates and degrees.

“Community colleges have tremendous power to change lives, and their success will increasingly define our nation’s economic strength and the potential for social mobility for every American,” said Josh Wyner, executive director of the Aspen Institute College Excellence Program. “This competition is designed to spotlight the excellent work being done in the most effective community colleges, those that best help students obtain meaningful, high-quality education and training for competitive-wage jobs after college.

High School Students Win Math Competition at MSJC

Students from Aquinas High in San Bernardino and Martin Luther King Jr. High in Riverside earned first and second place during the Trig-Star math competition at Mt. San Jacinto College.

Zhen Chen of Aquinas took first and Brian Cho of Martin Luther King Jr. took second during the March 8 event held at the San Jacinto Campus.

Trig-Star is a national high school math competition supported by the National Society of Professional Surveyors. It highlights careers in surveying, engineering and geographic information systems. Cash prizes are awarded to students for the highest exam scores. Students who participate can apply for a $5,000 scholarship during their senior year.

The event attracted 187 high school students from 22 high schools in San Bernardino and Riverside counties. MSJC Career & Technical Education partnered with San Bernardino Community College District, Riverside Community College District/Norco College, Chaffey College, California Land Surveyor’s Association, the County of Riverside Transportation Department Survey Division, and Riverside County Flood Control & Water Conservation District for this event.

“Trig-Star is helping our youth see future career opportunities and how to prepare for them,” said Lori Benson, project coordinator at MSJC. “It was a great day with the students providing plenty of inspiration to go around.”

The Aspen Institute announced in January 2014 that Mt. San Jacinto College was among the nation’s top 150 community colleges eligible to compete for the 2015 Aspen Prize for Community College Excellence and $1 million dollars in prize funds.

The prize, awarded every two years, is the nation’s signature recognition of high achievement and performance among America’s community colleges. It recognizes institutions for exceptional student outcomes in four areas: student learning, certificate and degree completion, employment and earnings, and high levels of access and success for minority and low-income students.

“This prestigious distinction is an honor to Mt. San Jacinto College and a testament to the hard work of our faculty and staff,” said Dr. Roger Schultz, superintendent/president of MSJC. “We are proud to be one of only eight California colleges ranking in the nation’s top 150. This announcement comes as one in a series of notable achievements for MSJC. We are proud of our accreditation, our programs and the local, state and national awards we as a college, our faculty and staff and our students have earned. The Aspen Institute announcement pushes the bar of excellence high and inspires MSJC to continue its commitment to provide quality education and support student success.”

The Aspen Institute identifies the top 150 colleges through an assessment of institutional performance, improvement and equity on student retention and completion measures. See the full list of the top 150 colleges at www.AspenPrize.org. Ten finalists will be named in fall 2014. Prize winners will be announced in early 2015.

MSJC plans to offer students more than 200 classes in summer 2014. This is the first robust summer schedule MSJC has been able to offer since California’s recession resulted in funding cuts that forced MSJC to drastically reduce summer classes. The recent economic rebound has helped restore some funding and enabled MSJC to offer more summer classes.

The comprehensive schedule will include many high-demand classes required for transfer to four-year institutions, along with basic skills and Career and Technical Education classes. Summer classes will be held throughout the day and into the evening at the San Jacinto and Menifee Valley campuses and the Temecula Education Complex. No online sections will be offered during the summer to allow for upgrades and maintenance of software and hardware.

MSJC will hold two summer sessions:
- An eight-week session that begins on June 9th and
- An six-week session that begins on June 23rd.

Both sessions end July 31.

Priority registration for veterans and disabled continuing students starts on April 21.

Please schedule an appointment today to talk to a counselor about your educational plan.

Msjc Biology Honors Students Present Fruit Fly Research at Conferences

A group of Mt. San Jacinto College students recently presented research on the Drosophila, better known as the fruit fly, during the 55th Annual Drosophila Research Conference in San Diego.

The Annual Drosophila Research Conference is the international conference for biology researchers that use the fruit fly as their model organism. The MSJC students learned how to annotate genes and other features in the newly sequenced Drosophila biarmipes genome under Dr. Nick Reeves, MSJC biology instructor on the Menifee Valley Campus.

The MSJC students and Reeves attended the San Diego workshop before heading over to the Honors Transfer Council Conference at UC Irvine on April 5, 2014. Reeves received his doctorate in biology for research on the development of neural stem cells in Drosophila.

“This was a great opportunity for my honors students to experience the environment of a scientific conference and meet the scientists that are making scientific discoveries,” Reeves said.

Lady Eagles Basketball Trio Sign Scholarships

Three MSJC women’s basketball players signed scholarships in March to continue their education and basketball careers at Northern New Mexico College. Cora Lopez (Hemet High graduate), Sarai Ware (Hemet West Valley High graduate), and Bree Madory (Riverside Notre Dame graduate) signed with the NAIA Division I school located in Española, New Mexico. These three helped lead MSJC to its second straight conference championship this past season and the school’s eighth straight play-off appearance.

Lopez and Ware were part of the 2012-13 team that set a school record for victories with 30 and advanced to the CCCAA State Championship game. Ware and Lopez leave MSJC tied with Reeves and Michael Plotkin, biology instructor and life sciences chair on the San Jacinto Campus, participated in training for the Genomics Education Partnership (GEP) at Washington University in summer 2013. The goal of the GEP is to provide opportunities for undergraduate students to participate in Drosophila genomics research. Reeves and Plotkin became members of the partnership last summer. MSJC is the first community college on the list of active institutions.

Student participants:
• Ursula Simonoski of Beaumont
• Astrid Russell of Wildomar
• Robert Haywood of Menifee
• Gabriel Sanchez of Hemet
• Maureen Njuguna of San Jacinto
