A MESSAGE FROM THE COLLEGE SUPERINTENDENT/PRESIDENT

The 2023-2024 academic year at Mt. San Jacinto College (MSJC) was truly transformative. We celebrated a remarkable milestone: 60 years of unwavering service to our students and communities. The year has been one of growth, innovation, and a renewed sense of purpose, propelling MSJC into a promising future.

We embody a CommUnity of Transformation. Our alumni, the heartbeat of our communities, are serving on city councils and school boards, and as principals, superintendents, teachers, nurses, emergency personnel, business owners, and more. Our dedicated faculty, staff, Board of Trustees, and Foundation are committed to our mission and vision, going above and beyond to support the profound transformation of our students, the ones who carry forward the college's legacy.

We are deeply appreciative to our community for their constant support, most notably in the approval of the Measure AA Bond in 2014. This pivotal moment, a testament to our collective commitment, has enabled us to offer the state-of-the-art facilities and equipment necessary to train community members for high demand careers and help students to reach their academic goals. The $295 million facilities bond, a direct result of our community's faith in our mission, has funded critical improvements to meet our region's educational needs.

In the 2024-2025 academic year, we will open the doors to brand new Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM) buildings at our San Jacinto and Menifee Valley Campuses. These facilities, along with the support of our remarkable faculty and staff, are poised to further transform our students' educational experiences by providing cutting-edge classrooms, labs, and resources dedicated to various STEM disciplines.

The improvements made possible by the Measure AA Bond epitomize our commitment to academic excellence and preparing students for highly sought after careers. They are not just buildings, but hubs of innovation and collaboration, welcoming students, faculty, and the community to explore new frontiers in education. These buildings are not just a part of our future, but they are shaping it, inspiring us to look forward with excitement and anticipation.

This annual report highlights the remarkable achievements of our students, faculty, and staff. It also introduces modern programs and provides an overview of the district's solid fiscal health. We are proud of the noteworthy progress we have made in our diversity, equity, inclusion, and accessibility efforts, working tirelessly to create an inclusive environment where everyone is valued and supported. While we've still got much work to do, MSJC is at the forefront of creating future-ready campuses, safe and welcoming learning environments, and pioneering programs that equip our students with the skills and training sought by employers in high-demand, high-wage fields.

The accomplishments detailed in this report exemplify the extraordinary dedication and hard work that defines MSJC. Our deep-rooted commitment to the students we serve drives the positive changes we see throughout our institution and beyond. I am immensely proud of our institution, our CommUnity of Transformation.

As we continue to transform learners, communities, and lives, I am deeply grateful for the steadfast and generous support from our community partners and donors who share in the vision of Mt. San Jacinto College and the MSJC Foundation.

As we look ahead, we will carry the momentum of another transformative year into a future filled with endless possibilities.

Warm regards,
Roger W. Schultz, PhD
Superintendent/President

The Eclipse Project: Nature & Nurturing Exhibit

The MSJC Art Gallery, in collaboration with the California Family Life Center (CFLC) and Worth Visual Arts, presented The Eclipse Project – Nature & Nurturing exhibit. This mentor art project, part of the a.r.t.e.r.y. program, marked its 18th collaboration and explored themes of intergenerational mentoring, nature, and human nurturing. The exhibition emphasized the connections between nature's nurturing lessons, as seen in the example of "mother trees," and human relationships. Through art, journaling, and mentoring, the project offered participants opportunities for growth, community engagement, and exposure to college as an attainable future path.

National Apprenticeship Week Activities

In November, MSJC hosted National Apprenticeship Week with a series of workshops, trade fairs, and recruitment events highlighting MSJC's apprenticeship programs, offering paid, on-the-job training for careers in fields like automotive technology and viticulture. Tonya Burke, Director of Apprenticeship and Work-Based Learning emphasized the college's commitment to connecting students with local employers and tailoring education to regional economic needs. The week included events such as a Construction Trades Fair, recruitment for Pepsi and Tesla, and open houses for automotive apprenticeships. All events were free and open to the public.

Pass Area 8th-Grade Girls Explore STEM Careers at MSJC

MSJC welcomed hundreds of eighth graders from Banning and Beaumont middle schools to the San Jacinto Campus for an early introduction to science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM) careers. The students had the opportunity to learn from women in STEM fields during an engaging STEM conference.

For over two decades, the Redlands branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) has hosted this inspiring event to actively engage, influence, and motivate eighth-grade girls to excel in school and pursue careers in STEM fields.

The exciting day-long event began with a keynote address by Amber Jazairi, a documentary filmmaker and motivational speaker, who encouraged participants to set goals, find ways to achieve them, and work hard.

Toy Drive to Help Student Families

For the 2023 holiday season, the MSJC Foundation and Eagles Landing - Center for Student Essentials coordinated a toy drive that supported 59 families by providing gifts for their children. MSJC Phi Theta Kappa students collected donations at Temecula Coffee & Cars and the Meniffee Hometown Holiday Festival, while the Mexico Cafe in Temecula hosted a giving tree for the third year. With the community's support, the college was able to provide gifts to 138 children. MSJC student Shannon Tupuola-Miller said the event was a blessing to her family and that she is grateful her children are associating good memories with higher education. "It has been a hard year for our family, and we are grateful," Tupuola-Miller said. "I, myself, being home primarily with my children their entire lives and now trying to remember what it's like to become a student myself, have faced many challenges this year. The kindness of MSJC has touched my heart deeply."

Silva's story, complemented by photographs he took during his escape, deeply moved the audience. Attendees also had the opportunity to explore a room dedicated to memorials and information, where they could learn about the lives lost on 9/11 and research names and locations on the bronze panels at the 9/11 memorial pools in New York.

Helena Mortimer, a fine arts major student at the San Jacinto Campus, is the winner of the art contest for the MSJC 2023-2024 Annual Report cover. Her piece titled "Metamorphosis" beautifully encapsulates the spirit of creativity and innovation that thrives at MSJC. Through vibrant colors and thought-provoking imagery, Helena invites us to reflect on our shared experiences and aspirations as a CommUnity of Transformation.

Helena described her piece in the following words, "The imagery that comes to my mind that best reflects the concept of transformation is one of the metamorphoses of a butterfly. Its humble beginning as a caterpillar reflects nothing of its future beauty. The development inside the chrysalis is a mystery, a process hidden from the outsider. Then, at the perfect time, the butterfly makes its grand entrance into the world. Much like this creature, students all have a season of humble beginnings. Day in and day out are filled with overwhelming loads of homework. New concepts and challenges to tackle. New relationships and new ways to grow. Just like the creature grows inside its chrysalis, students experience a transformation from the inside out. My illustration seeks to convey the glorious moment when all the hard work has paid off, and students are ready to launch into the community. All with a unique set of wings. All with a unique destination. And all being part of a greater transformation."
